DO YOU STAND OUT FROM THE REST?
PERFECT! THE JOB WE ARE OFFERING IS ALSO OUTSTANDING!

The Rieker Group is one of the leading shoe manufacturers in Europe. To strengthen our team, we are looking for you as part of a long-term succession plan

Junior Engineer / Technician
in the field of Development with an international outlook

NO DAY IS THE SAME:
• You analyse and optimise existing production processes and develop new footwear manufacturing processes in coordination with the technical management team
• The development and introduction of new production facilities and production improvements, in cooperation with machine suppliers, is also part of your tasks
• Your area of responsibility is rounded off by the execution, monitoring and logging of product and investment tests

Ongoing new challenges, worldwide cooperation with people from different fields of specialization and a direct involvement in production already give you an idea: no two days are alike here!

ATTENTION LATERAL THINKERS, SOLUTION FINDERS AND TEAM PLAYERS:
• A completed technical degree in mechanical/process engineering and / or a (technical) apprenticeship forms the basis of your qualification. Industry knowledge is not required
• You have already acquired initial work experience through internships or through previous technical training, ideally you already have CAD skills
• You are characterized by your hands-on mentality and are well-versed in manual activities such as welding, turning, milling, in addition to know-how of CNC machines and their programming
• Due to your quick comprehension and assertiveness you have the ability to implement and redesign new trends and projects
• a high willingness to travel worldwide as well as very good written and spoken English skills round off your profile

If you are looking for a long-term challenge and enjoy designing processes and developing solutions in a team, then you have come to the right place!

YOU ARE WELCOME TO BENEFIT FROM:
• We guarantee you individual and intensive training
• We offer a secure and long-term position in a future-oriented company, where we provide you a high degree of independence and, within the framework of succession planning, enable you to take up management responsibility at an early stage
• You can expect an open working atmosphere, diverse tasks and exciting projects in an international environment

Have we aroused your interest? Then apply online now on our application portal www.rieker.com.

A STEP WORTH TAKING!