

I'm in good company.

Sebastian, Consultant

Associate Consultant (m/w/d)

Bain & Company is an international management consultancy that assists executive decision-makers around the globe in shaping the future. Working closely with our clients, we help them set new standards in their industries.

Job description

As an Associate Consultant, you'll be serving a range of clients in various industries, allowing you to gain broad generalist knowledge. You'll also find yourself moving up a steep learning curve: from day one, you'll be part of a consulting team, working to help clients implement the right business strategies and increase their company value. Taking responsibility for defined project parts, you may be researching market information on a consumer goods company, analyzing the European competitive market for an automotive supplier, conducting expert interviews at a pharmaco, or benchmarking an energy supplier's competitive position.

Your home office will be Vienna, Austria.

Your profile

We are looking for top-of-class Bachelor or Master graduates in all fields.

How to apply
